

THE BOURBON NEWS.

SEMI-WEEKLY.

VOL. I.

PARIS, BOURBON COUNTY, KENTUCKY: TUESDAY, APRIL, 25, 1882.

NO. 15.

THE cool weather will put the price of red lemonade down to five cents a glass to-day.

SPRING CHICKENS sung the bitter-sweet song of four dollars a dozen on our streets Saturday.

FOUND:—A store door key: which the owner can have by paying for this notice. Call at this office.

Mrs G. C. FARRIS has 220 Spring chickens ready for the frying pan, with the Carlisle Mercury.

ANDY GILLISPIE, of Falmouth, has been jailed at that place, after stealing five horses within ten days.

Is there one on the top seat who will make his first confession, and take one of these celebrated clown song books?

Lots of people will spend two dollars with the circus to-day that cannot afford to pay that price for a semi-weekly paper.

MISSSES E. & S. D. MITCHELL will have their Millinery opening Saturday April 29th. Ladies don't fail to attend. 14-2t

WM. BRADLEY, white, who was sentenced to the penitentiary here last week, has three brothers in the penitentiary—all from Fayette county.

PRICE EWING, colored, was tried yesterday, on the charge of robbing his grass-widowed wife of thirty cents and her bonnet. The jury acquitted him.

In the year 1843, John Clay, of this county, mowed down a field of wheat which had been badly damaged by frost, and the new growth made a fair crop.

C. WEBLING, the butcher, will move in a few days, to the building now being repaired by John T. Hinton, on the corner near the Thurston House, opposite Hill's marble works. 1t.

THE Board of Directors of the Bourbon county Agricultural Association met Saturday, and decided not to add the trotting track and other improvements to their grounds this year.

WHEN Paris gets connection with Lexington, Georgetown, North Middletown and Millersburg by telephone, then we'll all have a "hello" of a time when all the girls get to talking at once.

Is the City Court Saturday, Wm. Shaw, Sr., plead guilty to smiting Tom Bashford on the cheek with his cane, and was fined $10 and costs. The warrant against Bashford was dismissed.

A. C. BREWINGTON, a well-known whisky drummer, has sold his interest in the business in Covington to his partner, Frank Vanden, and has gone to Dakota Territory, with a view to going into the same business.

E. G. BEDFORD has turned seventy-five head of cattle on thirty acres of his wheat which is waist high, but is so damaged by the freeze as to be considered worthless. We have also heard of several other farmers turning in on theirs.

ELEGANT cabinet photos of Rev. Geo. O. Barnes and Miss Marie, are now on sale at Brooks' drug store, at fifty cents each. The hundreds of admiring friends who were so clamorous for pictures during the revival, can now be accommodated.

JAMES HINTON's display of green house plants in the Henderson block, is one of the attractive features of Paris. Ladies from Carlisle, Millersburg, or other points who come in shopping, would do well to examine his beautiful and varied stock.

SHERIFF COLLIER, of Harrison county, took to Frankfort this week; John Garrard, sentenced to the Penitentiary, for seven years; Richard Curry, Frank Turley and Frank Johnson, all colored, each sentenced to one year's confinement in the State Prison for grand larceny.

"It's a man among men," said a colored farmer in front of our office Saturday, who had collided with about a quart of the natural enemy, and was laying his grievances before a couple of sable brethren who were towing him by the wings to some sequestered spot out of the way of the marshals.

'SQUIRE BOSWELL, the lion-tamer of Sells Brothers' Circus, pushed a colored man named Willis Lee, from a car in Covington Saturday, and Lee picked up a brick-bat and struck him in the mouth, which knocked out four teeth. Moral—a negro with a brick-bat is a worse crowd than a den of lions.

In strict keeping with his laudible enterprises in way of public improvements, Capt. J. M. Thomas has received specifications for an opera house, and will so construct the new building on the site of the old Northern Bank. The new opera building will have a gallery, side boxes, and other attractive features that will be inviting to first-class troupes.

He Whistled for Liberty.

BEN BOOKER, a colored farmer of this garden of Eden precinct, stole a concubine from Joe Harris, a sable aristocratic African gentleman from Missouri, and Joe hankered around Ben's house one night watching an opportunity to steal the coveted prize back again. The consequence was that, Ben injected a load of shot into Joe's diabolical, symmetrical, gigantic, Darwinially developed anatomical structure, and immediately bled himself away to a good alibi position and warbled the Fisher's Hornpipe in his most charming notes. A good witness by the way, heard the shot in one direction, and Ben's favorite and well-known tune in another. On Saturday, Ben was by Sheriff Armstrong, monkeyed up to the justice stand, to answer the charge of malicious shooting and wounding. The evidence being all in, and the sombre jury had commenced to knit their brows and harden their hearts to send Benjamin over to Frankfort on a little mission of duty to the State for a couple of years, when it was suggested in way of a forlorn hope, that Ben should favor the jury with that little tune. Judge Buckner, Attorney Bronston, and the jury all being willing, Mr. Lockhart, attorney for the defense, said "now Ben, get up there and whistle for your life." With some degree of nervousness Ben arose, and without persimmons or sugar, puckered under many difficulties, and fairly melted the petrified hearts of that jury with a few hasty lines of Fisher's Hornpipe, after which the jury in the goodness of their hearts, gave him that which Patrick Henry would have chosen in preference to going dead, by a large majority if he hadn't been a lying politician.

A Happy Family Abroad.

A consumptive man leading a half-starved sheep-killer, lugging the trimmings of a cooking stove and other camping out utensils on his back, passed through here last Friday, with two wives and five red-head, bare-footed children. One of the wives was drunk, and looked like boiled down destitution, and had no doubt escaped a powerful Winter's feeding, and subsisted on the shrill winds that poured through the Cumberland Gap for many months. A short interview learned the News that "the dog was good to watch things, but had to be tied to keep him from running away"—to hunt a morsel of meat, no doubt. The destitute family gathered what few pennies they could from the cold, uncharitable public, and moved on to they knew not where.

An Enterprising Firm.

A. P. ALLIS, of the firm of W. H. Ingles & Co., left Saturday evening for New York, to buy a third invoice of dry goods. This firm had, we thought three weeks ago, enough fine dress goods, trimmings, notions, &c., to run Bourbon and the surrounding counties all summer, but owing to their elegant stock, cheapness in prices, and above all—chose a judicious plan of letting the people know what they had, (through a column local in the News), and as a natural consequence, soon run short of goods. Cases of the latest novelties will begin to arrive by lightning express, about Thursday, and will continue to arrive daily until their now greatly reduced stock is amply replenished.

JUDGE TURNEY attended the Barnes revival at Georgetown Sunday, and reports five additions in the morning, forty children in the afternoon, and thirty-six adults that night. The total number up to that evening reaches over eighty. The meetings are largely attended and are highly appreciated, and were it not the fact that almost every one in that refined community being members of some church, Barnes' success would have been much greater.

This has been a pretty rough Grand Jury on the "boys." Almost every saloon in town has been indicted for violating the Sunday law, and two or three of them for permitting gaming. Jim O'Brien was indicted for false swearing, and has skipped the country for a term of years. Sam Clay and Co., were fined $800 for running slop into Stoner. The other distillers will not be tried this term.

THE great circus arrived last night, on thirty-six cars belonging to the Sells brothers. They own a half-mile side track on their farm near Columbus Ohio, on which they keep their rolling stock, when not out on the road.

A LITTLE photograph gallery on two wheels, took in the business houses of the city yesterday. Some of the "boys" regretted their inability to take a camera shot at the last grand jury.

It seems that Millersburg, Ruddle Mills, Centerville, and Clintonville have all been good little towns, and none but Paris and North Middletown have been bad—according to the grand jury.

SOCIETY SCINTILLATIONS.

Women have no worse enemies than women.

Sid Clay, Jr., joined the Christian church Sunday.

Women never weep more bitterly than when they weep for spite.

Ed. Nippert is now running messenger from Covington to Huntington.

John Waller, the lumber merchant from Cincinnati, was up again Sunday.

A woman and her servant, acting in accord, would outwit a dozen devils.

There is no torture that a woman would not suffer to enhance her beauty.

Woman is a charming creature who changes her heart as easily as her gloves.

Women love always; when earth slips from them, they take refuge in heaven.

The whisper of a beautiful woman can be heard further than the loudest call of duty.

FISHING, and all other important business will be suspended to-day, on account of the circus.

Grand Master Holt will address the Odd Fellows at their hall, Wednesday evening. The public are cordially invited.

John Welch, a graduate of the K. W. College Millersburg, has been elevated to the position of City Attorney of Nicholasville.

It was a philosopher who said "Before promising a woman to love only her, one should have seen them all, or should see only her."

One by one the "boys" are coming in with their small grip-sacks filled with "chips," and are looking disconsolate since the last "deal."

ZEKE PORTER, of this city, has seen some of Jesse James' blood on the floor in the room where he was killed, and is consequently, happy.

If you want to entirely alienate the affections of some of your pretended friends, just loan them fifty cents with which to take in the circus to-day.

"Scrub" Webb, of the Frankfort Yeoman office, illumined our sanctum yesterday with his sunny smiles and general strawberry-blond appearance.

A Georgia woman who was clubbing a goat, was knocked senseless by lightning for two hours. Now who can say there is no just retribution sent from heaven?

It was a cute widow who said "It is not easy to be a widow; one must resume all the modesty of girlhood, without being allowed to feign its ignorance."

A GREAT many colored farmers will heroically curb a wild and frantic desire to plow and plant corn to-day, and will monkey to the glory stand in the circus tent.

Some men leave enduring footprints in the sands of time, while others leave their subscriptions credited 0.00, and "gone to" written out to the right in parenthesis.

H. T. Allen, brother of J. G. and S. C. Allen, of Millersburg, will be one of the five graduates at West Point, in June. He will go on a tour through Europe with a host of other graduates.

John Hite, of the Kentuckian office, is satisfied that he went to school with, and was a sweetheart of Jesse James' mother, when she was a small girl and lived near Stamping Ground, in Scott county.

Joe Norvel, of Carlisle, passed through here yesterday morning, for Frankfort, to accept a position in that city, obtained for him by Judge Hargis his brother-in-law. The dispatch he bore, did not particularize the position.

The editor of the Lexington Transcript has been learning to dance the orang-outang reel, so when the circus comes, he can gyrate up in front of the animal cages and smash the hearts of some of his South American friends with envy.

At the Risk of Missing the City.

At the Risk of Missing the City.

MART. BOWLES, of Ruddle Mills, says the buckeyes are not killed.

Arthur Owens for shooting and wounding Sam Insko, was fined $50.

The Kentuckian will have some "Barnes notes" in it this week—and, all summer.

John Gandering will appeal on the $50 fine for selling beer on Sunday, on the grounds that beer is not a spirituous liquor.

Dow Davis and Geo. Clark, farmers near Moorefield, fell out and fought about a load of hay near Moorefield, Nicholas county, and one mauled the other badly with an ax. The sheriff had to be called in Sunday to settle them.

Geo. Celery, the saddle-colored Scandinavian who stole Craddock's ten dollars, "made his first confession dear brother" to Judge Buckner, and was kindly permitted to go up for one year only.

An Ambitious Kentucky Boy.

JOHN A. JOYCE, a sprightly Irish boy, was educated by Newton Congleton, near Mt. Sterling, just a few years before the war, as was also "Bud" Collier, of Nicholas county, who was Congleton's nephew. One Saturday, while the two boys were hoeing corn, Joyce stopped work, leaned on his hoe, and remarked, "Bud, ten years hence, where do you suppose we will be?" "Well, I don't know," says Collier, "but where do you think?" "Well, I'll tell you," says Joyce, "I'll be in Congress, and you'll be down in Nicholas county hoeing corn." The ten years almost verified the assertion, for the close of the war left Joyce a colonel, after which he was made private Secretary to Gen'l McDonald, the chief of the great whiskey ring, and was with him sent to the Missouri penitentiary. From his oration before his sentence was passed we extract the following from McDonald's book:

"A few short years will sepulcher the living of to-day with the dead of yesterday, and the celestial sunlight of to-morrow will bring us all to the bar of Omnipotence, where the judge, jury, lawyer and client, will meet upon the level of eternity and part upon the square of final judgment. Then all hearts shall be laid bare, and truth will rise in splendid triumph.

The blood of innocence flows free and untroubled through the life-channels of this frame, and the artificial lusts that surround the victims of crime find no lodgment in my heart. When I look back to the field of battle, when I fought and bled for my country in the hour of terrible trial, I wondered whether patriotism was but a name, and the gratitude of nations but a mockery and a sham to lure the brave to destruction. My simple sin is that of omission, and for it I suffer the deepest humiliation, while the glorious services and recollections of the past are buried in the grave of forgetfulness. Is this just? This epidemic era of reform has risen like the rush of a mighty flood, and sped on towards the gulf of punishment. The good and the bad suffer alike. The stream is full of driftwood and dead timber, while many young oaks and tall sycamores on the banks are loosened from their firm foundation and dashed into the river of destruction. But the rain falls light on the mountains, the sun shines warmly on the plains, and the floods even now are settling into its former bed where the crystal water shall again reflect the green foliage of the oak and sycamore, and the gentle breezes and birds of Spring shall make merry music in the cathedral aisles of a generous nation. The prison walls that hemmed in Gallileo, Columbus, Tasso and Napoleon, did not measure the minds of the men. It is true their bodies suffered some torture, but the proud spirit that was in their hearts leaped the bounds of clay and soared away into the illimitable regions of science, poetry and war, making them monarchs of the hour and masters of eternity.

Humble as I am in the walks of life, my soul is inspired by their illustrious example, and it shall be my future endeavor to show the world that, although I may suffer for a time the penalty of perjured testimony, yet like a mountain crag, I shall breast the pelting storm, and lift my head clear and bold to the coming sunshine of truth and redemption. I have done."

The Trader, Turfman, Farmer and Sportsman.

A California snipe was shot in Jessamine county last Friday.

James E. Cl y has sold his wool at 25¢ cents to a buyer in this city.

Kentucky has fifty race courses, and Paris will soon add another.

Morris Gass thinks that the wheat is most all killed, though much of it looks uninjured.

Dr. Herr, of Lexington, has sold Mambrino King, said to be the finest stallion in the world for $10,000.

J. W. Poor, of Garrard county, has sold 1,300 bushels of hemp seed at $2 per bushel, and yet he is poor.

Cincinnati sportsmen now shoot clay pigeons, in consequence of the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals prohibited the shooting of live birds.

The Lexington races commence at 12:30 each day this year, instead of 3. This gives all the people down this way a chance to attend and return on the 4 o'clock train.

Sanford Carpenter shipped the first invoice of fine, fat Spring lambs from Mason county to Covington last week, for which he got 6¢ cents per pound. He has 1,000 more bought in Mason.

H. M. Roseberry owns a ewe which gave birth to a lamb one month ago, and one again last Thursday. She could have had three if she had wanted to, but didn't want to. Both lambs are well and hearty.

The Maysville trotting races will commence on the 16th proximo and hold four days. Two purses each day, aggregating $6,400. The meeting will be opened with a ten mile race for $1,000 a side between Miss Nellie Burke, of Omaha, and Miss Lillian Doersig, of San Francisco.

Strayed or Stolen.

From the place of B. F. WILSON, at Flat Rock, Bourbon county, Ky., one bay mare, three years old this Spring. Description as near as we can give: She is a light bay, one or both hind feet white, and star in forehead, and a small Roman nose. Any information or delivery of the mare will be liberally paid for. no.13-3t B. F. WILSON.
